Last chance, Melbourne: This weekend only – see it before the rest of the country

Mum, this is not a drill.

OZ The Cirque Experience is now playing in Melbourne at the Athenaeum Theatre. But here's the twist – it's here for this weekend only, then it flies off to Perth and Brisbane (faster than a house in a hurricane), before landing in Adelaide to kick off the July School Holidays.

That means you get to see it first – before the school holiday crowds, before your friends in other cities, and before tickets sell-out completely.

And yes – remaining tickets in Melbourne are now all just $59* each.

Save on other cities, find the best priced tickets at ozcirque.com

Why mums are ditching the movies for Oz this weekend

Let's be honest: family outings can be expensive – so why not spend less? You could be sitting in the beautiful Athenaeum Theatre this weekend, watching your kids' jaws drop as acrobatics amaze, the witch cackles, and Dorothy discovers there's no place like home.

OZ The Cirque Experience is the story you know, reinvented – a spellbinding fusion of circus, theatre, live vocals, aerial performance, and a modern twist.

It's clever. It's funny. It's the kind of show that makes kids whisper "that was amazing" on the drive home – and mums all agree it's great value for money.

The cast bringing the magic to life

Leading the adventure exclusively in Melbourne this weekend:

- Sam Hamilton as The Wizard
- Amy McCann as Dorothy
- Hannah Gardiner as Glinda
- Grace Laing as the Wicked Witch

Alongside:

- Paige Dorrity (Scarecrow)
- Dan Price (Tin Man)
- Louis Green (Lion)
- Tina Cano (Mouse)
- Luke Blaze (The Illusionist)

With ensemble: Jeanette Jordan, Tombé Harvey, Sergio Reyes, and Charlotte Sligar.

See world-class talent perform live on stage, in Melbourne this weekend, before they hit the road around Australia.
