Noosa Calling.

Great Divide Mining Ltd (ASX:GDM) CEO Justin Haines is attending the Noosa Mining Investor Conference 2026 this week, continuing the Company's long-standing support of one of Australia's premier mining investment events.

The Noosa Mining Investor Conference, held at Peppers Noosa Resort, remains one of Australia's largest and most influential mining investment events bringing together over 70 ASX-listed companies and over 2,500 attendees from across the nation's resources and investment communities.

"It's a credit to Phil Dickinson and his Team for running what must be Australia's most successful mining conference - bringing together explorers, producers, investors and financiers, and, most importantly, shareholders," said Haines.

"That's why we visit every year."

"Today, GDM returns to Noosa as a producing gold company."

"In just three years since listing when GDM first attended Noosa, we've advanced across all five of our projects from being a pure explorer to now an explorer and producer, shipping gold concentrate in regular scheduled shipments."

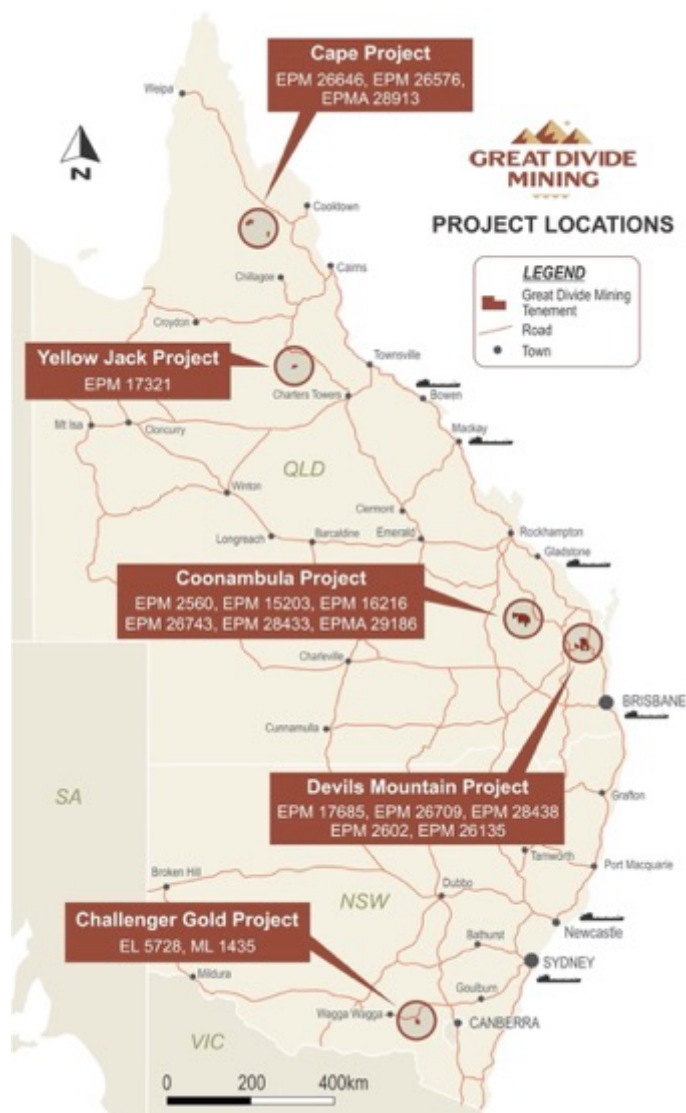

"Momentum continues to build across the GDM portfolio and we're looking forward to sharing the next stage of our journey with shareholders."

"I'd like to personally thank the Noosa Mining Conference Team for the part they played in bringing GDM's plans to reality, for the benefit of all shareholders," he said.

"That's really what it's all about."

"We wish the Noosa Mining Conference 2026 every success !" said Haines.
