

Brentos Launches Online Series of Original Paintings, Prints and NFTs to Raise Awareness for Wildlife

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sydney, Australia – Artist Brentos, known for his colourful surfboards and wildlife murals across Sydney has launched his online series titled ‘Portraits from the Bush’ that embodies a collection of original paintings, fine art prints and emerging NFT (Non-Fungible Token) crypto artworks. The series website launches on 21st April, 2021 with all works available online.

Brentos describes the series in the following statement:

“Through my series ‘Portraits from the Bush’ it’s my goal for the viewer to spark an individual bond with each native animal with a crescendo forming when all portraits come together as a whole. To me, this mimics how one may collectively view our native animals in their wild places and how each species has a unique role to play in a much grander theatre.”

“Whilst shining a light on our wildlife, I also wanted to use this series as an opportunity to embrace new technologies like NFTs and dedicated art websites to go beyond gallery walls and embrace new platforms for artists to present their work.”

Brentos has been creating pastel-toned artwork inspired by Australian wildlife for over 5 years and has worked with iconic Australian brands like Coopers, WIRES, Surfing Australia and Australia Zoo with a mission to raise awareness for Australia’s native wildlife.

The online exhibition can be viewed at www.portraitsfromthebush.com.au with a percentage of sales donated to WIRES and the Great Koala National Park.
