Globally recognised top 10 leadership program now back in Australia FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

XEd Space - an innovative new Australian company that aims to accelerate the growth of key leaders who want to make a difference in their world - have recently partnered with the US based Center for Creative Leadership (CCL) to bring the globally recognised Leadership Development Program (LDP[®]) back to Australia.

The five day LDP[®] is the only program of its type running in Australia that has consistently been rated by the Financial Times Executive Education rankings in the top 10 worldwide.

Michael Curtin, Chair of XEd Space said “Running these CCL programs again in Australia gives Aussie leaders the opportunity to challenge themselves and grow while we are unable to travel internationally.”

While the programs were previously run only at the exclusive Mt Eliza campus on the Mornington Peninsular, XEd Space will be bringing the programs progressively to all Australian capital cities starting in Melbourne on 18 October 2021.

“These are deeply immersive programs with team-based activities, detailed psychometrics, one-on-one executive coaching and the chance to develop yourself professionally by five years in just five days,” Curtin said.

For the first time ever, XEd Space will also bring to the Australian market CCL’s ‘live online’ programs - ideal for those of us in lockdown. The first of these Lead4Success[®] programs commences on 13 September.

Interested participants/organisations can find out more about the programs at <https://www.xedspace.com.au>

About XEd Space

The three co-founders of XEd Space have enjoyed diverse careers in business, elite level international sport and the Australian military. For more than 15 years, all three have worked with the top Australian business schools (the Australian Graduate School of Management, Melbourne Business School, Sydney University's John Grills Centre, and Mt Eliza Executive Education).

Intellectual curiosity, and a desire to work with the leading organisations, to help translate theoretical knowledge into practical skills that leaders and organisations can implement to drive high performance have been the common threads.

XEd Space believes ...

- that everyone has the right but maybe not the confidence, the tools or the experience to excel;
- that leadership lessons don't need to take years or be learnt from trial and error;
- that modern organisations truly need highly capable and confident new leaders who can shift the dial and achieve great results; and
- that new leaders have the right to feel encouraged, challenged and supported with expert knowledge to accelerate their success.

XEd creates that space – the space for the courageous accelerated growth of key leaders who want to make a difference. Find out more at <https://www.xedspace.com.au>
