ABOUT ME

Born in Melbourne, in 1988, I grew up in Adelaide and settled on the Gold Coast at age 18. I have been writing speculative fiction (Science Fiction and Fantasy) since I could hold a pen. My first published work was a poem in a school newsletter, at age five. In 2019, I published an award winning novella (a thriller titled, A Mind of His Own). It scored amazon's Top 25 psychological thrillers list. In 2021 a short story of mine was published in Australia's Premier Science Fiction Magazine, Antipodean SF. In January 2022, my debut novel, Astraeus, was released in eBook and paperback via Amazon and major retailers.

About my book

ASTRAEUS

Onboard a world-settling starship named The Astraeus, a colony adjusts to their new life in the stars as they embark on a two hundred year journey to the centre of the Milky Way. The Astraeus is a paradise, but their utopia doesn't last long. When a passenger is murdered, the colony begins to turn on each other, and things get far worse when the ship begins to experience violent tremors. In a race against time, they must find answers and repair the damage or risk falling victims to the cold empty void of space...

What I can give you

NEW EYES
AND EARS

As a new and exciting author, with a background in marketing and advertising, I have accumulated a loyal reader-base and some highly engaged social media followers. I promote all of my marketing activities in order to cross-promote the media outlets I speak with, providing some fresh new eyes on publications my audience may otherwise not have heard engaged with.
