

Travel and lifestyle brand Thin Air Global presents the Travel Duffle – a “Carry-on” option that is spacious and practical for current global travel conditions.

Created to be the “go-to” bag for travel, the Travel Duffle opens like a suitcase for the simplest packing process possible, with multiple compartments for essential travel items.

In current times of hurdles and restrictions for travel comes the need for appropriate products. After their success with the kick-starter funded “Flite Jacket,” travel goods brand Thin Air Global released their next addition to the range – the Thin Air Travel Duffle.

With so many bag and luggage choices around, the team at Thin Air knew that, due to the changing travel climate, baggage-processing issues, and with the increase of short weekenders becoming the new normal for many keen travellers. The Travel Duffle was born.

This impressive product zips completely open down the sides like a suitcase, revealing two large main compartments. The bag offers the perfect amount of space to pack for shorter 2-7 day trips, or as the carry-on bag for any travel distance.

It has a padded laptop compartment, which can fit up to standard 15.4” size laptops. The two external zippered compartments are perfect for the quick access items. It even has its own USB charging port, which you can connect to your own power bank and store inside the bag – allowing fast access to USB power for charging your devices.

Thin Air Global Founder Daniel Hooper, who combined his experience with supplying travel products for global retailers and his love of travel to create the brand, wanted travelers to have a minimal yet practical solution for current travel conditions.

“Travelling with the optimal size bag with practical features is so important,” says Hooper. “The travel industry is easing its way back slowly, and there’s now a strong “weekender length” market, with long haul gradually working its way back but enduring certain transit delays and hiccups for a lot of travellers. So, we wanted to provide a duffle bag option that can work really well practically for this season of travel, but then also continue to be something to enjoy for those longer trips that will be regular again in the future.”
