Immutable X is partnering with Ninja Syndicate to deliver an exciting sci-fi world of mech destruction in a series of immersive and interconnected games.

Ninja Syndicate joins major companies such as GameStop, TikTok, and VeVe Collectables to build on Immutable X's Layer 2 scaling solution powered by StarkWare. The strategic partnership will see the Australian Web3 Game Studio Ninja Syndicate migrate Supremacy, a series of interoperable Blockchain games, to the carbon-neutral Immutable X platform. The teams will work together closely to ensure a smooth transition ahead of upcoming major announcements from Ninja Syndicate.

Immutable X is selectively onboarding the best emerging games to unite in their mission to onboard the next billion players in web3. In a recent statement, Immutable X co-founder Robbie Ferguson said, "Immutable X is excited to provide Supremacy's community with greater functionality and gasless transactions. The Supremacy team's vision to connect players in an interactive and immersive world is one we share and look forward to supporting. Immutable X is always looking for the best emerging games to partner with as we bring the next billion players to web3; Supremacy is no exception."

Supremacy World is facilitating a new era of seamless and interoperable Web3 gameplay that will be the first of its kind. Supremacy utilizes multiple game genres bound together in an overarching mass-multiplayer online metaverse environment (MMO). This allows for full interoperability of players' digital assets and unifies each game within a single economy.

Supremacy Battle Arena is the first in the series of immersive interconnected economic simulation games. It is a fast-paced, streamed 24/7, Mass-Multiplayer Online Battle Arena (MOBA) where players deploy and command their NFT backed mechs. The Battle Arena game has recorded over 150 million in-game transactions since game launch in February 2022, with an average of 200,000 in-game chat messages per month. It has over 22,000 unique players connected to the game and its genesis NFT release of 10,000 War Machines completely sold out.

The Battle Arena is preparing for a major upgrade to current gameplay with its imminent Nexus release, which will see the addition of multiple Battle Arenas, customizable PFPs, composable NFTs, skins, and much more. Future planned releases will incorporate a First Person Shooter (FPS) and a Real-Time Grand Strategy (RTS) game. All game releases are already in development and will be deployed on Immutable X.

CEO of Ninja Syndicate Alex Dunmow commented, "The future of NFTs in games requires seamless blockchain integration, providing clear and lasting benefits for players. True ownership of hard-earned game assets means players can own and trade without publisher interference. For an NFT game to survive the current market, the game must be fun and rewarding, and web3 implementation must stay out of the player's way. Our partnership with Immutable is a giant leap to reaching NFT gaming nirvana."

About Ninja Syndicate

Ninja Syndicate is a leading metaverse game studio based in Australia. In February 2022, the studio launched Supremacy, a series of futuristic, war-based economic simulation games set in the year 2149. Supremacy connects players in an immersive, interactive, and interconnected world where they can battle, trade, and earn in-game currency $SUPS. Players deploy their NFT backed mechs in a mass-multiplayer online battle arena, streamed 24/7, with faction members working cooperatively to provide air and field support to the Mech Commanders.

Next major release includes their upcoming First Person Shooter game that connects directly into the battle arena, titled Human Resistance.
