St John's Cathedral Exhibits 'Sailing to Byzantium' by Olga Bakhtina

As a Russian growing up in the times of Glasnost and Perestroika, Olga Bakhtina is deeply worried about future of Russia with the suppression of freedom and the horrible invasion of Ukraine. Asked why she paints biblical scenes, Olga answers: “These works are really about humanity and what comes with it – the beautiful things in life like love, kindness, devotion, and sacrifice, but also the pain and tragedy – betrayal, greed, cruelty, and war. Look at the world, look at Ukraine. Has anything really changed since Biblical times?”

Brisbane, Australia – Brisbane artist Olga Bakhtina invites you to 'Sailing to Byzantium,' an exhibition that blends the sacred art of the Early Renaissance and Byzantine periods with themes from William Butler Yeats' poem. Running from June 29th to August 13th at Saint John's Anglican Cathedral, this exhibition promises to captivate visitors with its profound blend of spiritual and artistic exploration.

Exhibition Details:

Title: Sailing to Byzantium
Artist: Olga Bakhtina
Venue: Saint John's Anglican Cathedral, Brisbane
Dates: June 29th to August 13th
Entry: Free

Relevance and Insight:

Reflecting on why she paints biblical scenes, Olga says: "People who've known me for a while, often ask me why I started painting biblical scenes. The answer is simple: it is a response to what is happening in the world around us – especially the last few years.

Just the other day, there was a terrible attack on a children's hospital in Kiev. Children who were already fighting cancer, their families, as well as doctors and nurses were killed and injured. When you hear news like this, you think of the Massacre of the Innocent.

When we think of all the refugees in the different parts of the world who have to leave everything behind and flee with their children it reminds you of the story shown in Flight into Egypt.

And St George and the Dragon? That is the Christian allegory of the battle between good and evil, that we see everywhere in the world.

I think if you look at the paintings, you will see that they are not just about the Bible. Or the past. I believe, art is not wallpaper. It's not decoration. It never was, and it should never become mere decoration. Art is about sharing stories. About human connection.

As someone once said: Art is the highest form of hope. I like that. Because we need hope in this world. Like in Annunciation. We need love, like in Madonna and Child. We need kindness like in the Good Samaritan. So each of the works here, tells a story. A story that is still so relevant in our modern lives."

Exhibition Overview:

The exhibition title comes from W.B. Yeats' poem Sailing to Byzantium, which speaks of the quest for eternal beauty and spiritual transcendence. In the poem, Byzantium symbolizes an ideal world of artistic and intellectual perfection, a place where the soul finds peace beyond the physical. This idea connects deeply with the spiritual essence of Early Christian art, where every detail holds profound religious meaning.

Drawing from Yeats' exploration of eternal beauty and spiritual transcendence, Olga Bakhtina's 'Sailing to Byzantium' delves into the depths of love, devotion, sacrifice, and human frailty. Each piece is a visual meditation, rich with symbolic detail and profound religious meaning, inviting viewers to reflect on their own spiritual journey. Olga's art transcends mere depiction of Biblical scenes, seeking to find answers and offer hope through powerful visual narratives.

Archbishop Jeremy Greaves delivered a beautiful speech at the opening night on July 11th, with a glowing review of Olga Bakhtina's work.

"Through my art, I strive to bridge the ancient stories of Christianity and our modern society, reflecting on the timeless human experiences that connect us all," says Olga Bakhtina.
